Comfortable Facilities

Loon Lake Research and Education Centre is a modern, four-season retreat centre located in University of British Columbia's Malcolm Knapp Research Forest. The Centre is situated on the shores of Loon Lake and has a long tradition of providing an area for forestry and environmental education as well as outdoor recreation. Today many kids, teens and young adults visit the camp to discover their talents, learn new skills and make a bunch of new friends.

A variety of cabins including the Student Centre, Alumni Cabin and Staff House provide dormitory-style lodging for up to 100 guests. The great room in the Student Centre is the ultimate retreat space featuring a rock fireplace, cozy seating and spectacular lake views. Accommodations are equipped with flush toilets, hot showers, heat, lights and wireless internet.

Unlimited Learning Experiences

Learning beyond the classroom provides opportunities for youth to achieve things they may never have thought possible. Choose from mountains, forests, lakes, outdoor amphitheatre or indoor activity space.

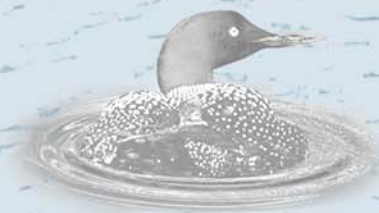

Like team sports? Check out the Cadillac Fairview

Trevor Linden Gymnasium or kick the soccer ball around on the outdoor playing field.

Groups that need to catch up on work assignments can access the computer lab equipped with 10 workstations.

Nutritious Meals

Hear the chime of the bell and you know another delicious meal is ready for your group. Meals are always tasty and good for you too! Kitchen staff ensure meals are balanced using wholesome and hearty ingredients. All meals and snacks are served buffet-style in the main dining hall. Staff pay close attention to any allergies or dietary restrictions guests may have.

The dining hall also offers an outdoor deck with great views. It's a popular location to hang out with friends when the sun is shining.
